SAUNDERS WINS K. P. EXHIBITION

Large Audience in Stone Church, Clinton, Heard One of the Best Contests in Recent Years

Stanley Stewart Saunders won the 62nd annual Clark Prize exhibition, held Wednesday evening in the Stone Church in Clinton. Previously Mr. Saunders had won the McKinney Prize Speaking in his freshman year, and he now holds the Huntington Mathematical scholarship, and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Speakers Uniformly Good

The Stone Church was well filled, both with friends of the College and with outsiders, who listened to one of the best K. P.'s in recent years. Every speaker had well written, clean cut orations and delivered them in convincing style. An unfortunate occurrence was the breaking of Bristol, the first speaker. He realized his situation and at once made his bow and left the stage, so saving himself and his audience much embarrassment. As long as he was speaking he held the crowd and stood a good chance of winning the exhibition. Only five men spoke, Mr. Lyon, the sixth speaker, being at Madison Barracks.

Saunders Dramatic

Thruout his oration, "Closing the Open Door," Saunders held his listeners. He had a very dramatic style of speaking, and an excellent range of voice. He opened with a dramatic appeal for China to awake, for she must become civilized. This was the call of the western nations. "China had seen the eyes of the world turned on her lands, and she was forced to act in self defense, so she closed her door. Finally the storm broke, and there followed the Boxer revolution, with its awful results." "Japan," he said, "was the child of Europe. National greed became her ideal." China, however has learned if she is to exist that she too must become a cunning savage. "Beware, western nations," said the speaker, "the yellow hand is on the rifle." America alone can save China, and the time has come for America to see that the integrity of China be guaranteed. His oration was built to speak and in this as well as in his delivery he had a slight shade on his competitors.

The order of the speakers and their orations follow: William M. Bristol, Jr., "Closing the Open Door"; James Marshall Campbell, "The Irish"; Lynn C. Horton, "Democracy —the Word and the Thing"; Stanley Stewart Saunders, "Closing the Open Door"; Paul C. Squires, "Diplomacy in a Democracy."

—Rev. Willard P. Soper, '04, of Clinton, was in New York last week to attend the Commencement exercises of the Union Theological Seminary.

"TOM" ORR EXPERIENCES NASTY WORK UNDER FIRE

Hamilton's Ambulance Driver Writes Back of an Exciting Night, Dodging Thru Curtain of Fire

In a letter recently received from somewhere on the French front, "Tom" Orr tells of some hot work under fire:

"If you know of anything more harassing than driving along a shell-torn road with Boche shells dropping all around you, trying to pierce the inky blackness and at the same time not to hit the next cannon, which will loom up suddenly, just let me know and I'll take a try at it when this life begins to bore me.

A Hot Section

"Our section left Paris February 8, and after a nomadic month roaming thru the war zone, we were put in about the nastiest sector of the whole front. We had to run four kilometers in full view of the Germans to reach one poste de secour, and thru the woods into a nest of French batteries to reach the next. It was a marvel that no one got cracked, and only three cars were hit by "eclat" the whole month we were there. Three days after we had replaced Section 1, that Boche had the indecency to make an attack. We hardly knew the roads, and being a new section, were scared pea-green by the hell that broke loose. We carried over four hundred 'blesses', and on the whole did remarkably well, with only five cars smashed up. Five of our men have been given the croix de guerre for their work that night, in driving thru a curtain of fire, with the roads swarming with mules, cannons and troops.

Poisonous Gas Bad

"The gas, however, was the worst. The Germans use a high explosive shell charged with gas, and make it very uncomfortable for anyone in the neighborhood. The gas has a sickish, sweet odor, makes one's eyes smart badly, and parches the roof of one's mouth. I had to put my mask on three different times, but couldn't see a thing, so finally took a chance without it.

"I spent two hectic weeks in a

CLASS DAY OFFICERS

Since President Lyon's enlistment in military service, A. C. Woolnough has been chosen to have charge of the Senior Class Day exercises, June 16th, of Commencement week. As in past years, the program will be full of surprises in the nature of "take-offs" on various activities and classes. This year, James Seaver, of Brooklyn, will be class historian, Marshall Campbell, of Warsaw, prophet, Ernest Griffith, of Utica, will be the class day orator and ivy orator as well, and W. K. Jones, of Moravia, class poet.

Riley, '19, was elected new assistant manager of Musical Clubs; Pape, '19, of Charlatans; Perkins, '19, of Intramural Sports; Keane, '20, of Baseball, and Atwood, '20, of Track.

Dr. Wood presided and subsequent to the elections, presented several trophies to the winners as result of competition during the past year. The large cup awarded annually to the crowd winning the Indoor Athletic Contest went to the D. U.'s. The Dekes received the 1916-1917 basketball cup, and Cooper, '20, took the banner for the Indoor Track Meet, which was won by the Freshmen. The Interclass Basketball Banner went to the Seniors for the third straight year.

Power to Cancel Football

Making an announcement for the Executive Council, Dr. Wood said that the Manager of Football had made all contracts subject to cancellation a month before the first game, which is scheduled for the 25th of September. As this comes before the College is in session, Manager Griffin has been empowered to cancel the agreements on August 25th, if the war is still in progress, as it would not only be impossible for Hamilton to put a team

NEW CATALOGUE OUT

The 1917-1918 catalogues will be issued this week and a large number of the four thousand copies will be sent out at once to prospective Sub-Freshmen and other applicants.

From the few incomplete copies placed in the library last week several changes in the curriculum have been noted. Geology 1-2, which was formerly a Junior subject, is now open to Sophomores, and a new course in advanced English composition has been offered in Junior year. French 7-8 has been changed from "Prose, Poetry" to "History of French Civilization," and a history course in "French Revolution, Nineteenth Century" has been added to Senior year. The course in military training will be offered to all who pass the physical test.

CLEANLINESS SHOULD BE THE SOLDIER'S AIM

A Neat Appearance and Smartness Cannot be Emphasized too Much in the Army Says Lieut. Heward

In his third contribution Lieut. Heward writes on "Smartness and Cleanliness."

Perhaps of all the important things aimed at in the army, there is nothing more to be desired and also absolutely essential than that a soldier should be at all times clean and smart looking. In my opinion there is nothing that looks finer than to see a smart looking soldier, and by that I mean one who is well groomed, boots shined, clothes put on properly, meaning of course that all buttons should at all times be kept buttoned, hair kept properly cut, and last but not by any means least, he should be shaved.

Keep Care of Teeth

As an officer, I think it also a good plan to see that each man looks after his teeth. During my experience I have even known times when men's finger nails were inspected and I think that a splendid idea, because does anything look worse than dirty finger nails and hands? All officers at the front are responsible for the men's feet in their platoons, and it is a crime if any man's feet get sore thru neglect in any way.

I never remember a man who always looked smart and clean in the army who did not find his lot made much easier in consequence. Cleanliness is said to be next to godliness, and, in my opinion, there was never a truer saying. Just imagine how unpleasant things would be if you had to live with a lot of men who never bothered about keeping clean and looking after themselves in general. After a time if an officer, and you have been impressing on your men these things, they will all feel most grateful to you, and would that not be of great satisfaction?

EAST ORANGE HIGH WINS GLEE CLUB CONCERT

Alumni of New Jersey Meet With Great Success—Over 2,000 People Jammed Auditorium

The Interscholastic Glee Club contest held a week ago Friday evening in the auditorium of Newark, N. J., Central High School under the auspices of the Hamilton College Alumni Association of New Jersey proved an immense success. The auditorium, built to hold no more than 2,000, was jammed with an audience of 2,200 of which 1,700 were high school students of the state. In addition over 200 students were on the stage as members of the competing clubs.

East Orange Wins Cup

East Orange High School won first prize, an immense silver loving cup, the gift of Alexander C. Soper, '67, of Lakewood. The school winning it for the second time gains permanent possession. The individual members of the winning club were each presented with silver medals. South Side High School received the second award. Edwin Roemer led the winners and they were trained by Miss Bertha Clement, director of music. Two other schools were entered, but found it necessary to withdraw because so many had left to enlist or for farm work.

Much "Pep" Showed

Each school had a reserved section in the auditorium and displayed "pep" of the best type, singing their own school songs and engaging in informal competition with school yells. New Jersey papers devoted considerable space to the affair and altogether Hamilton received a generous share of advertising throughout the state.

Entries have already been promised for a similar contest next year and it will hereafter become an annual affair. It was arranged this year to take the place of the usual speaking contest. The superiority of the new plan is easily recognized in the immense increase in interest . Fritz Lee, '15, is the originator and manager of the new scheme.

There is only one model in Franklin Simon's

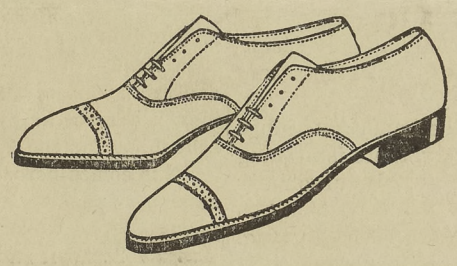
at $7.50

But its the kind of a model which is the only model of its kind!



Cut on an English last with low one-inch heel and a semi-pointed toe, known in the King's English as 'arf and 'arf.

Roomy over the ball of the foot, snug in the heel and the ankle and finished with those blind eyelets which are so custom-looking!

Made out of horse hip hide and takes four hips to produce three pairs.

Then tanned a beautiful mellow mahogany by a special process.

Soft, serviceable, rainproof, and awfully good-looking.

Worth $10 per pair on present cost of Cordovan hides.

What two great Encyclopaedias say about the Oliver Typewriter:

From Encyclopedia Britannica

TYPEWRITER—Encyclopaedia Britannica, 11th Edi., Vol. XXVII.

"The important desideratum without which no typewriter can produce work of satisfactory appearance is accuracy of alignment. For the attainment of this the use of typebars has given wide scope to the ingenuity of inventors who have been confronted with the problem of making a system of levers at once strong, rigid and light, and of supporting them on bearings where space is much restricted.

"In the Oliver machine the typebar is of the form shown (in Fig. 1) to secure stiffness and a double bearing."

From Everyman Encyclopaedia

TYPEWRITER—Everyman Encyclopaedia, Vol. XII, Ste-Zym.

"In the Oliver machine the letter is situated on the bottom of a U-shaped bar. The U is inverted and the two ends are pivoted in bearings, which makes an exceedingly strong type bar and gives excellent alignment. In some cases the alignment is 'forced', that is the type passes through a hole or between guides. This produces good alignment but if the type bar does not strike truly, the result is either a faint impression or a strain on the finger of the operator.

The cutting of stencils for duplicating work is an important function on the Typewriter, and the Oliver machine is pre-eminent in this respect on account of the type bar already referred to. When only a few copies of a letter or document are required, carbon paper may be inserted between sheets of writing paper, and in this manner as many as twelve copies of one original may be made with thin paper and carbons."

Only the Oliver has the arch-shaped type-bar, with broad bearings. This insures perfect alignment. Oliver type cannot "run down at the heel," because it always strikes squarely.

Only the Oliver prints downward, just as one writes. No lifting necessary to raise the type-bar. This means a lighter touch, greater speed, and a bigger day's output with a third less exertion.

College Singing

The new Y. M. C. A. administration has attempted to revive the good old college "sings." Some men in College may not know it, but for the past four weeks on Sunday evenings there has been a gathering on the Y. M. C. A. steps. Due in great part to the nasty weather, the attendance has been limited to the "faithful few." Be that as it may, these men have the right idea, and the college body as a whole would profit much by joining these gatherings.

There is no better way to foster real comradeship in a student body than by some good old spirited "sings." You get to know and to like men who never appealed to you before. You cannot explain it, but singing does bring out all the best spirit. It makes you feel chummy and confidential to all about you. What would this world be without the song?

Singing has always been an essential part of college life. Every college recognizes this fact. Williams, in order to keep alive singing, has even gone so far as to have contests between the four classes. It is a big affair and classes practice for weeks in advance with the most keen rivalry.

At Hamilton during the spring and fall evenings there used to be some real singing on the Campus, as the old boys will testify. But for the past two years this pastime seems to have fallen into disrepute. The present college generation knows hardly any of the good old songs that were inspirations to the boys of other days.

This may seem a trivial subject to some sophisticated undergraduates, but tritely speaking from the little things come the big. Every college, to be worth its existence, must have within it some distinctive spirit,—a unity of fellowship which has the power to overcome little differences and misunderstandings. Big gatherings on the Campus spiced with Hamilton songs bring each man much closer to his fellows. Let us make these "sings" for the rest of the year big affairs, and when we return again to college let us not forget to continue them.

Alumni Notes

Karl F. Adams, '08, is head of the School of Commerce in the city of Omaha. When he took charge four years ago, the school had only three hundred pupils and the city had decided to give it up. Adams now has 1900 pupils and fifty teachers under him.

—Capt. E. H. Moody, '02, of Binghamton, has been put in charge of training the students of the Binghamton High School between the ages of sixteen and nineteen in the military drill now required by the State Educational Department. Capt. Moody has an excellent military record and is considered well fitted for the task of training the three hundred students of whom he will have charge.

—Prof. Joshua E. Sweet, '97, who has been a professor in the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania for several years, has arranged to go to France next month to serve in a base hospital.

—Joseph E. Carmichael, '00, principal of the high school at Rockville Center, L. I., died suddenly at that place last Wednesday and his body was brought to Boonville for burial Saturday. Soon after graduating from college Mr. Carmichael became principal of the Vernon High School. Since then he has been head of the high schools at Lake Placid, Skaneateles, Pelham Manor, and Rockville Center, and has been prominent in educational circles in those places.

Rev. John S. Niles, '86, is now pastor of the Federated Church at Goleta, Cal.

—Weaver, '14, who has been acting for the past month as Publicity Manager for "The Chicago Daily News," left last week for the Illinois Officers' Reserve Camp. The report that he had been promoted to the staff of book reviewers of "The Chicago Daily News" was erroneous.

—Rev. Robert M. McLean, '06, is professor of Spanish in the Dubuque German College and Seminary, Dubuque, Iowa. His work is of a "missionary type, preparing foreigners for Christian leadership. There is a large number of Spanish-speaking men who are training for service among their own people."

—Rev. Warren D. More, '88, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Santa Barbara, Cal., has just broken ground for a new edifice. The building is to cost $100,000 and the entire amount has already been subscribed. Dr. More was for a time Instructor in the Department of Rhetoric and Oratory in the College.

—Carl L. Carmer, '14, instructor in English and Rhetoric at Rochester University, has been selected by the Rochester Y. M. C. A. to act as an assistant secretary in the work to be done in the military camps.

With the Colleges

Texas.—The co-eds of the University of Texas have formed an organization for the purpose of getting the girls in touch with soldiers who did not have a girl to leave behind. Each member must be a good letter-writer and candy-maker. Long-distance romances are looked forward to, so the girls are insisting that their soldier boys be unmarried. The charter members will get officers for heroes, while later members must content themseves with privates.

Pittsburg—Military Training four days out of the week, has been made compulsory at the University of Pittsburg.

Purdue—Approximately 300 out of 678 fraternity men in Purdue have left college to enter some form of military service or to go on farms.

Williams—Williams College alumni and friends have subscribed $12,000 to the American Ambulance Field Service. This means 8 ambulances.

Yale—Yale University is establishing several farm camps for Yale men this summer, each camp to be limited to fifty men. Comfortable quarters and congenial co-labor will thus be ensured.

Princeton—More than 30.5 per cent. of the total enrollment of Princeton have left college to enter some branch of military or government service.

—New York University has instituted a special study of the Boy Scouts and Pioneers in a thirty-hour course in the Department of Physical Training in their Summer School.

—Forty-eight men of the Williams Battalion have enrolled in a special class of French, to be taught by a French woman.

PIONEERS ORGANIZE

Many Prominent Men Interested in Organization

Jessup, '18, recently elected Chief Executive of the Pioneers has started to organize his Executive Staff for the coming year. Lee, '20, has been advanced to Assistant Executive, and Kennedy, '19, to Publicity Secretary. Huntsman, '18, remains Secretary of the organization. Griffin, '18, has been selected chairman of the Committee on Expansion, and Link, '18, chairman of the Committee on Consolidation. Atwood, '20, will be head of the Supplies Department.

The organization hopes to have more funds next year with which to work thru the public schools. A large number of individuals in various parts of the country have shown an active interest in the movement, and it is expected that much work will be accomplished thru them. Griffith, '17, the founder, will not hold an office, but will be active in this section of the country. The movement has progressed to such an extent that during the past three months seven magazines have published articles concerning its work.

Dr. Thomas D. Wood, professor of Physical Education at Columbia and chairman of the committee on health problems of the National Council of Education, has been taken onto the Advisory Board of the Pioneers. The association desires to have the advisory board composed mainly of older men rather than undergraduates.

PROF. LEWIS GIVES BOOKS

Growth of Library Great—More Books Purchased Than in Any Previous Year

Prof. Lewis gave about two hundred and fifty books from his personal library to the college library last week. Most of the works are on English language, English literature, public speaking, and rhetoric, but there are many volumes of fiction and miscellaneous writings.

The total number of books added to the library during the past year is about five thousand, of which two housand eight hundred have been purchased. This is the largest number of books purchased by the library during any single year. The other volumes were given by alumni and friends. Dr. F. W. Putnam, of Binghamton, contributed five hundred and forty-eight volumes, Pres. Stryker three hundred and fifty volumes, Elihu Root two hundred and eighty-five volumes, and John H. Cunningham, '66, of New York, about two hundred volumes. Several others have donated between fifty and seventy-five books each.

'hospital militaire' with the measles, which our chief kindly handed to me. It may seem like a seventh heaven to a poilu from the trenches, but the enforced idleness almost drove me mad. At present we are stationed in a regular town, and our headquarters are 'parfait'—that is, we are quartered in a loft of a barn, the roof doesn't leak much and the rats are few in number. It is so quiet along here now that we 'brancadiers' have almost forgotten what a 'blesse' looks like.

To get into the Champagne offensive is our cherished hope. Yesterday me and my 'pal' sauntered into a communicating trench, and found ourselves only twenty metres from the Boche! But a little passing around of cigarettes put us on good terms with the men (cigarette is the password in the French army). I had a look at Herr Boche thru a periscope, and he resembles plenty of barber wire and brush. After inspecting the grenades, mortars, etc., we wandered back, and got lost in the first line trenches, meeting a sergeant who was looking for trouble, and accepted his invitation to visit the lieutenant in charge. Peculiarly enough the 'loot' offered us wine and a personally conducted Cook's tour thru a model sector.

"We may go to Russia soon, as the French want to send a foreign sanitary section there."

The program consisted of two selections by each school. The first one was optional, but the second piece, and the one on which the judges based their decision was "Carissima." The judges were Robert J. Hughes, '90, of the Mollenhauer Conservatory of Brooklyn, Hubert P. Main, of the music publishing house of Bigelow & Main, New York, and John R. Thomas, tenor of St. James' Episcopal Church of New York. Mr. Thomas took part in the program with a tenor solo.

WILD OATS

That celebrated crop of cereals has been the burden of many a solemn preachment on the waywardness of youth.

When a man settles down to playing the real game of life, he begins to think of banking. Sound sense and mature wisdom incline him to a financial institution that grown past the youthful days of financial wild oats. He looks for solid experience, conservatism, and the ripened judgments of successful business men.

There are few worthwhile successful business concerns in this community that do not number among those in authority at least one of our Board of Directors. This board is composed of the following:

Thomas R. Proctor	Frederick T. Proctor	J. Lindsey Hughes

ROAD FROM CLINTON TO HILL TO BE IMPROVED

Village and Town Officials to Take Action—Expecting Co-operation from Hill

Five hundred dollars has been voted by the town officials for the construction of a road from the foot of the Hill to Dwight Avenue in the village. This road will be a fine stone road and is to be built like a regular county road. From Dwight Avenue on to the railroad the Village will take up the construction. The latter improvement will probably not be of as good construction as the smaller section the town will work on, but it will include entire reconstruction of lower College Street.

Financial Aid for the Work

Work on both improvements was to begin last month, but was held up by assurances from good sources that financial co-operation from a resident of the Hill could be secured in the building of a macadam road from the railroad tracks in the village to the top of the Hill. Dr. G. R. Taylor, president of the village, says the Village Board would, with such co-operation, spend more money than it had voted to the reconstruction of the road.

Construction by the town officials was started last week and will be rushed as rapidly as weather permits.

SPRING ELECTIONS HELD AT ANNUAL COLLEGE DINNER

in the field, but no satisfactory schedule could be carried thru.

"Trot" Responds

Professor Chase was present and came in for his share of the praise when "Cy" Young moved that the College extend him a vote of thanks and a long yell for his faithful work in not only the organization, but the administration of the affairs of the Student Battalion thruout the spring. In response, "Trot" congratulated the College on the unity with which they had responded to the call which everyone has felt in the present crisis, and which has called about forty men to some immediate branch of national service. He said that he was glad of the sobriety shown by all the men, and was gratified that so many had seen it their duty to stick to their jobs on the Hill in order to place themselves in positions to render the most service later. "Hamilton has a right to be proud of what has been accomplished this spring, altho everyone knows that there are 'a few' things yet to learn."

Before Carissima, Dr. Wood proposed a long yell for "Our Soldiers" who are missed every day, and will be, together with many more before the College assembles at the next dinner in the fall.

—The Half-Century Annalist at Commencement for this year is to be Rev. Dr. David R. Breed, '67, of Pittsburg, Pa. The Annalist's letter will probably be a unique one as Dr. Breed has the rare gift of a great sense of humor.

Military Jottings

NEWS, NEAR NEWS AND BULL

Formal Drill Ends Today

The formal drill of the college will end today, as Senior examinations start Friday. The absence of the Seniors will mean the breaking up of the companies, but the drill will be continued for the benefit of the three under classes. The three-hour drill period, however, will be abandoned, and the men will assemble for only one hour on the appointed days. All drilling will be discontinued as soon as the final examinations commence on June 7. Altho Seniors will not be marked absent after today, they will be allowed to drill with the companies at any time during the remainder of the term.

—Due to the fact that tomorrow is Memorial Day, and there are no classes held, drill will also be omitted.

—From the length of time we marched last Friday some of us thought the captains had forgotten how to say, "Fall Out."

—The rain is still with us. These boys who pray for rain every day must be getting the results. There has hardly been a bright day this week, but the drill goes on just the same.

—By this time practically every man in college over 21 has taken steps to register himself for the army in accordance with President Wilson's Proclamation. The blanks are obtained at the County Clerk's Office in Utica. They are made out by the individual and mailed to the mayor of his home city, so that they will be in his hands by June 5. Every man, on registering, is given a blue card, as proof of his act, and he must keep this card on his person at all times. Practically the entire membership of the two upper classes is affected by this proclamation.

—Here is a new occupation while standing at right dress. Count the hairs on the cheek of the man next to you.

—On last Monday the Battalion invaded Clinton at the conclusion of an eight-mile hike. The companies lined up on Park Row, and entertained the spectators with an exhibition drill and the Manual of Arms, which lasted about fifteen minutes. No announcement was made of the event, and consequently not a very large crowd witnessed the Battalion in action. Those who were there remarked on the excellent manner in which the men handled themselves as soldiers.

Bomb Throwing

One of the new things attempted in the line of military instruction last week was bomb throwing under the direction of Lieut. Heward. Lieut. Heward has had actual experience in throwing bombs in the trenches, so he is in an excellent position to offer instruction. Of course, there are no bombs laying around the Campus, but in the rear of Knox Hall there is a large number of round stones, which served in the capacity of death makers. The real bomb has a lever, which, when let up, causes the missile to explode in four seconds. If we had had real bombs several of us would be running around now with an arm or two out in back of Knox Hall, as the men tossed the stones around with more or less inaccuracy and slowness. But handicapped as the Battalion was by the irregular size of the missiles, they gained an idea of bomb throwing, which may be valuable in the future.

—The bayonet work was continued from last week, and the men have been taught to lunge now, as well as be "On Guard" and to "Right Parry."

—"Deac" Beach was absent Friday, and the whole company missed his jovial countenance and his witty remarks. We almost thought he was back when someone began to sing, "Old Black Joe."

—Lieut. Heward announces that, weather permitting, today the Battalion will dig a trench. The exact location of the trench has not been decided, but it will probably be on Mr. Rogers' property. This is the last day all will drill together.

—There has been more or less discussion on the Hill during the past week about the possibilities of some men driving ambulances in France this summer. The American Ambulance Corps is trying to raise 20,000 men to carry on this work, and as fast as the men apply for positions as drivers they are sent into active service. W. M. Bristol, '17, C. S. Truax, '17, and H. B. Ogden, '19, have practically decided to enter this branch of the service immediately after Commencement.

—The competitive drill held yesterday afternoon was won by Company A, commanded by Capt. "Cy" Young. The judge was Lieut.-Col. Cookingham, '96, of Utica, who consented to come out to judge the comparative merits of the two companies. Both companies made an excellent showing, and the award was finally made on the basis of attention which the men showed to the little things. Col. Cookingham was greatly pleased with the drill of both companies.

HAMILTON AT UNION

Seeking to revenge the defeat of May 17th, the Buff and Blue Base Ball team will leave tomorrow morning for Union to play the final game of the season. For over a week the team has been working hard in an effort to obtain a more efficient aggregation. Whitman will probably do the mound work for Hamilton.

—Rev. Milton Waldo, '47, of Urbana, Ill., the sixth oldest living graduate of the College, died on April 18, He was the founder of the local chapter of Delta Upsilon.

—Walter H. Pratt, '08, has accepted the principalship of the Hyde Park School, near Poughkeepsie. He had been engaged in law in New York City, and still earlier in the law office of Dunmore and Ferriss, Utica.

With this issue Life discontinues publication until Commencement.

PROF. SUPER LECTURES ON BULL FIGHTING

Gives Many Interesting Details of the Spanish National Pastime

Those who were fortunate enough to hear Prof. Ralph Super lecture on "Bull Fighting in Spain" in the Y. M. C. A. Thursday night, came away with a greater knowledge of Spanish life and of the national sport of that country. Prof. Super has spent considerable time in Spain and consequently is familiar with the life and habits of the Spaniard. His talk was illustrated by colored pictures projected on a screen.

After showing several views of the larger cities of Spain and explaining the life of the people, Prof. Super told of the mercenary standard of bull fighting. In Spain bull fighting is done purely for the money made; the bull fighters being men of low birth who have acquired wealth by this pusuit.

Methods Employed

When the bull is let into the ring after being starved for about twenty hours, he is antagonized by men called picadors, who rush at the animal with pikes. The animal is infuriated and because of this many horses are sacrificed in every contest. Secondly, men rush up in front of the bull and throw little harpoons into his neck, at once dodging away. "This," said Prof. Super, "is the most dangerous and the most interesting part of a fight." By this time the bull is somewhat worn out and then the matador, or the hero who does the killing, advances and after many manoeuvres succeeds in piercing the animal's heart with a long sword.

"Most fights in Spain are held under the auspices of the municipalities," said Prof. Super. "About 80,000 and about 10,000 horses are destroyed each year by this sport, and large farms are devoted to raising these mammoth animals."

POETRY FOR COMMENCEMENT

Prof. Fancher hopes that the printer will complete the setting up of the type for the Hamilton Book of Poetry by the end of this week, so that it will be off the press for Commencement. On account of the unfavorable market conditions only a limited edition will be produced.

The book has been in the hands of the printer for several weeks, but the use of Old English type has required that the entire book be set by hand, thus delaying the date of production. The proceeds of the sales will go to the Hamilton Ambulance in France. The price remains unchanged: $1.25 net, or $1.35 postpaid to any alumnus who applies for a copy. To entail no loss thru unsold copies only a limited edition will be printed.

1919 HAMILTONIAN EDITOR

At a meeting held in Chapel, Friday morning, Irving M. Ives, of Bainbridge, N. Y., was elected Editor-in-Chief of the 1919 Hamiltonian. As soon as he appoints his board, plans can be formulated for next year, so that an early appearance of the 1919 publication will be possible.
